Editor's Comments

I am very proud of the work of all of the talented people who contributed to our association's ninetieth anniversary edition of The Cincinnati Numismatist. I hope I have succeeded in giving each author's work a complimentary layout that provides our readers with a enjoyable and informative reading experience.

This issue is filled with, in my opinion, world class numismatic articles on a wide variety of subjects. The articles are arranged in no particular order although when they were received had a small influence...very small.

I'll give you a few previews on the articles herein. I have to limit myself because I only have this column and I really think you should read every author's work because they are just that good.

Learn from Mark Van Winkle and Steve Ivy how Heritage held its first ANA auction right here in Cincinnati. Steve Roach reveals the secrets of Charles A. Meurer's paintings. Michael Rice gives us his insight on two legendary coins and their respective designers. Brad Karoleff takes you on a journey into what life was like for a 19th century man. I also must mention the art level photographic work of Robert Kelley of the ANA, His "painting with light" images on the front cover and at left are just beautiful.

Sixteen years ago my daughter Katie, in her eight month as corresponding secretary, gave us our newsletter in its present form. It didn't even have a name. The club members voted on several possibilities and Emmett Ey's suggestion received the most votes. His thought was that since our association was formed in 1930 to host the ANA convention we should likewise have a connection to the ANA with our newsletter title.

Our newsletter has come a long way in the years since then. I stumbled a lot when I took over after Katie left for college. I had to call her many times so that she could walk me through some Publisher problem I had created. Thank you to assistant editor Isaiah Hageman and every person who has contributed along the way.

CINCINNATI NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

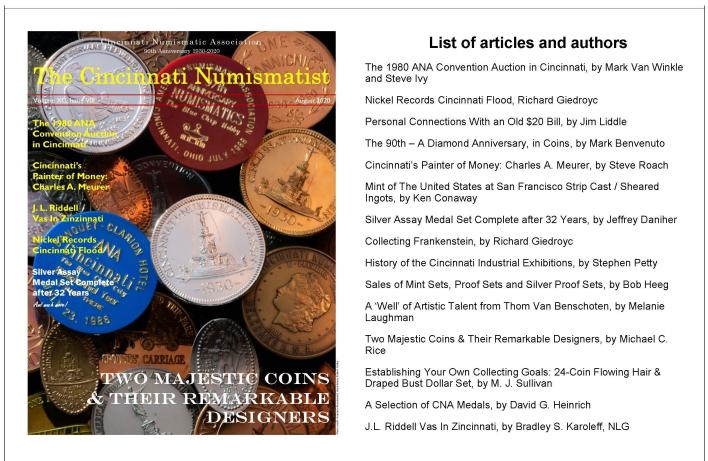

Treasurer: David G Heinrich

President/Editor: David G. Heinrich Vice President: Bill Bennett Recording Secretary: Deborah Lewis Assistant Editor: Isaiah Hageman Webmaster: Tom Lanter M

The Cincinnati Numismatic Association was founded in August of 1930 and consisted of thirty-five members including numismatic notables such as B. Max Mehl and Farran Zerbe. The first CNA President was Herbert A. Brand. The CNA was founded for the purpose of hosting the 1931 American Numismatic Association convention. Since then, the CNA has hosted the ANA convention three times, in 1942, 1980, and 1988. The CNA also hosted the 1998 ANA Spring show.
